I would like to add my voice to the thousands of others who are ready to let Microsoft get back to work. The terms of the proposed settlement seem fair to all parties and best of all, would put an end to this destructive legal hassel. I am an average American working for a living. I use Microsoft products every day and am grateful to the company for all they have done to make our lives better. As owner of a small amount of Microsoft stock, it is hard to see that any good for anyone can come from further legal attacks on Microsoft. Enough is enough.
